Introduction

IN publishing the Registers of a Parish, those of my readers who are familiar with old records will scarcely find fault with me for adhering to the original spelling; though, possibly, others may consider me harsh—not to say, barbarous—and may be inclined to quote :—

"Barbarus hic ego sum quia non intelligor ulli."

Still a strict adherence to the original appears the only correct way to print a work of this kind; and this method I have accordingly followed.

The parish (the Registers of which are here submitted to the public eye) is situated about four miles West of Royston, and nearly eleven South of Cambridge. It is variously called Abington-in-the-Clay, Abington Pigotts, and Abington-juxta-Shingay, the last form being especially used in these Register-books. It is in the Hundred of Armingford, and in the Deanery of Shingay.

The Church consists of a square tower at the West end, a Nave with South porch, and a Chancel. It is dedicated to S. Michael and All Angels, and the living is valued in the King's books at £16. 2*s*. 3½*d*. The architecture of the Chancel is late of the thirteenth century, and that of the rest of the Church early of the fourteenth century.

When the Church was re-roofed in 1865, a fresco over the roodloft (which latter had been destroyed before the memory of man) was brought to light by carefully clearing off the whitewash of many years; but a storm of rain one night while the roof was off, so obliterated it as to prevent its being restored. The fresco was worked in blue and red stencilling, and represented; to the right of spectator, the good, in the company of angels, going up steps into heaven; and to the left, the wicked being thrust into flames with forks held by demons.

Volume I. of the Registers is of parchment, and commences with the appointment of a Registrar on the ninth day of January, 1653-[4]. It is fairly legible—with the exception of two pages, which have suffered from damp—and perfect, but half of the first page is cut cleanly off, so that the name of the magistrate, who signed the appointment of the Registrar is missing. I have no doubt that, as this officer was sworn at Whaddon, a neighbouring village, Sir Henry Pickering, who then owned it, was the Justice of the Peace who officiated. The volume consists of twenty-two leaves, or forty-four pages; size, nine inches by five-and-a-half inches. The lower outer corner of another leaf has also been torn away, and about a third of one more cut off. There are no entries in 1679, and one only in 1678, though space has been left in each case.

Vol. II. is also of parchment. It begins in 1729, where Vol. I. leaves off, and is continued till 1782, being throughout well kept and legible; size, about nine by six inches. Twenty leaves, of which one, and the half of another, are not filled up.

Vol. III. again of parchment, begins in 1782 and ends in 1812; size about thirteen inches by eight. It contains fourteen leaves, or twenty-eight pages, of which eleven are not filled up.

Vol. IV., devoted to Marriages and Banns of Marriage, is of paper, commencing in 1755 and ending in 1811. This Register was provided in compliance with the Statute popularly known as "Lord Hardwicke's Act," of which some particulars may be seen at page 90.

Stitched into Vol. I. is an interesting list of Briefs, followed by a statement of the money collected (pp. 34-38). Four paper leaves have been folded, and thus make sixteen long and narrow pages, on which the entries have been written.

When an account of the Registers belonging to the Parish was returned by order to Government in 1813, the first Register ending in 1729 was missing. Of the date or circumstances of its restoration to the Parish Chest there is no record. The Rev. George Pennington, vicar of Bassingbourne and curate of Abington in 1813, who furnished the return above mentioned, makes no allusion to this first Register, though the others are duly enumerated in his own hand in the present Baptismal Registers.

With these few remarks I present to the public the Registers of Abington Pigotts or Abington-juxta-Shingay. I cannot conclude, however, without saying that my best thanks are due to Mr. John A. C. Vincent, a well-known worker at the Public Record Office, for his valuable assistance in deciphering those parts of the first volume which had been injured by damp, or were otherwise difficult, and also for his further help in seeing the present work through the press.

[1] Or, as otherwise written with a double date, 1653-4; being the January immediately following the 4th of August 1653. It is well, perhaps, that attention should be called thus early to the distinction between the HISTORICAL and the LEGAL year, because both styles are used in this Register. The Historical year has for a very long period begun on the 1st of January, but the Civil, Ecclesiastical, and Legal year commenced (in and after the 14th century) on the 25th of March, and so continued until the Calendar was corrected by Statute (24 Geo. II. c. 23) in 1751, and the legal year ordered to begin on the first of January in 1752, and so on from time to time in every year after.

Ann the wife of Lionell Coles Rector of this parish dyed at Westminster on Munday Dec: 18th, 1710 and was buried 21 ditto in the vault of the Savoy Chancel.

Dec: 12th, 1714
Lionel Coles and Letice Thompson were married in Lincoln Minster.

The second Book entitled

"The[1] Register Book belonging to the parish of Abington juxta Shingay in the County of Cambridge."

(1729—1782.[2])

There are only 20 leaves in vellum in this register, and none appear to have been cut or torn out, so that the person who wrote "22 Leves in Vellum" must have included the first and last leaves which are or were of paper. The last leaf is missing. Size about 6 in. × 9 in.

[2] The Marriages end in 1754, a separate Register (Lord Hardwicke's Act) being then found from 1755, and continued to 7 Dec. 1811.

The handwriting of Andrew Pern, who was inducted Rector 15th Jan., 1740-1, now appears, and the Baptisms and Burials of 1740 are attested by him, "Sic desinit Annus 1740, A. Pern, Rector." The Registers for 1741 and 1742 are in another hand, the same person who began the Registers in 1729. Andrew Pern again appears in 1743, and from that date "to Baptiz^d 1758," all the entries are in his writing. But there are only two Baptisms in 1758, no entry of Marriage or Death. The Register then goes on "Baptized 1759," and the two Deaths registered that year with the Baptisms are in another hand. Then A. Pern begins again "Oct. 19, 1760, William Abby," &c.—W. G. F. P.

Succession of Rectors[1]

1292-3, Jan. 27. William de Essewell. Admitted on the presentation of William Pichard, as appears by the Final

[1] The Bishops' Registers not being available, because they are under arrangement, these names and particulars are mainly derived from the Rev. W. Cole (Add. MS. 5810, fo. 270), who uses these words:—"Rectors of Abington-Pigot's. The following List is taken from Dr. Mason's and Mr. Rudderforth's Lists of the Rectors in a MS. of the late Dr. Mason, marked F." "Collated with Dr. Richardson's short List, 1777. W. C." Doubtless, omissions and inaccuracies are to be found here, resulting from wrong or imperfect information. Besides, there are two other parishes in this county called "Abington;" and these, though properly styled Great Abington and Little Abington, are not invariably distinguished in old records by the addition, magna or parva, as the case may be, but written simply Abbiton, Abiton (e.g. Charter Rolls—37 Hen. III. m. 2 (or 14); 41 Hen. III. m. 1; 4 Edw. III. n° 37; 11, 12, 13 Ric. II. n° 12). Here is at once a fruitful source of confusion. The risk of error likely to arise from similarity of name is well illustrated by a Book of Institutions (Liber Institutionum, Series A. vol. 3) in the Public Record Office. Little Abington, though plainly described in the bishop's certificate as a Vicarage, and in the Deanery of Camps, has been twice erroneously calendared under "Abington juxta Shingay," which is a Rectory and in the Deanery of Shingay. Again, even in the Bishops' Certificates (Ely), Abington juxta Shingay or Abington Pigotts is twice (1672 and 1680-1), by inadvertence, certified to be in the Deanery of Camps, which (as above stated) is the ecclesiastical division containing the other two Abingtons. From and after the year 1554 Cole's list—for such it may be called, by reason of his adopting it and making it his own—can be checked by the "Bishops' Certificates" and "Composition Books," preserved among the Records of the Exchequer. His omissions of Rectors from and including that date are shown by an asterisk (*) placed before the name; and, generally, his statements have been freely dealt with in the way of correction or enlargement.

Agreement made between William de Berle and William Pichard concerning presentations to the church of Abington. —Feet of Fines, Cambridge, 19 to 21 Edw. I.

1323. William de Eltisley. The king allowed in 1324-5 (18 Edw. II.) the exchange[1] between Alan (son of William) Barle and William de Eltisley, parson of Abington.—Baker, vol. 28, p. 150.

1348-9, Feb. 4. John de Longedon.

[1] This was a mere exchange, on one side and on the other, of a very small quantity of land (half an acre and a third part of one rood) for its exact equivalent in area and value: as appears by the Inquisition (ad quod damnum, 17 Edw. II. nº 136), taken at Royston 25 January 1323-4.

[2] In 1374 one Richard, perpetual chaplain of the chapel of Saint Swithin in Abington, took at Ely the oath of obedience to Bishop Arundel, as appears by an extract made by Cole (Add. MS. 5842, p. 10) from that bishop's register. On the death of this Richard—whose surname was Godred—he was succeeded by Thomas Chalmington, between whom and Robert, vicar of Steeple Morden, disputes arose concerning tithes, which resulted in an action for trespass brought before the king's justices at Westminster in 1392. The chaplain stated in defence, that there had been, from time immemorial, a free chapel within the manor of Dounhalle and parish of Abington, to which, on every avoidance, the lords of that manor nominated a chaplain, who was then presented to the vicar of Steeple Morden, and by him instituted; and that these chaplains had all tithes except those of corn and hay. The vicar contended that the chapel and the tenants of the fee, to which the manor was subject, belonged to the parish of Steeple Morden; and that the chaplain was removeable at the will of the vicar for the time being. The matters in dispute, as falling within the cognizance of an ecclesiastical court, were referred by the king's writ, dated 8 July 1392, to the bishop of Ely, who was commanded to make inquiry and to report the result to the justices at York on the 13th of October following (Add. MS. 5825, f. 191).

1473, Aug. 20. John Pigott. Succeeded on the resignation of John Sparhawke. By his will, dated 12 Dec. 1479, he bequeathed his body to be buried in the Chancel of S. Michael, Abington; and gave (inter alia) 3*s.* 4*d.* in money to the convent of Friars Minors in Cambridge.[2]

1486. William Penne resigned.

[2] There is an old stone in the chancel, robbed of the figure of a priest. On one side of him, in a small scroll of brass still remaining, are the words, Miserere mei Deus. There are matrices for three more scrolls, and four circular matrices, one in each corner, about four inches in diameter. This is probably a brass in memory of John Pigott, as it is the only stone that has the reaved effigy of a priest or ecclesiastic.

There is also a very old stone with the portraiture of a man in brass and eight boys at his feet. As many girls at the feet of his wife, whose effigy is reaved; as is also the inscription which was round them, with the four shields of arms at the four corners of the stone. Under the man's feet on the ground is a trefoil carved on the brass.

[3] By "first fruits" understand the profits for one year of every spiritual living, whether benefice or dignity; which profits (anciently given to the pope) were made payable to the king by Statute 26 Hen. VIII. c. 3, from every incumbent or dignitary after his institution, collation, or installation. In the case of Abington Rectory, the first fruits were £14. 10*s*. 0¼*d*., which constant sum was found by deducting the yearly tenth (32*s*. 2¾*d*.), which was also given to the king out of all ecclesiastical revenues by the Statute above cited, from the annual value (£16. 2*s*. 3½*d*.), reckoned according to the return made into the Exchequer in the year 1535 (Valor Ecclesiasticus, iii. 503). Sometimes the entire first fruits of benefices were paid "in hand," i.e., at once; but, more generally, four bonds were taken for four half-yearly payments to be made on fixed dates—commonly, the first day of certain months, as February and August, March and September, &c.; but occasionally the usual quarter-days. After 25 March 1704, one bond only was required for the four payments by the Statute 2 and 3 Anne, c. 11 (otherwise c. 20); under which also the first fruits were given up by the Crown and settled upon a corporation, afterwards known as the "Corporation of Queen Anne's Bounty," which was empowered to administer the revenue arising therefrom for the benefit of the poorer clergy. It may be added that certain clauses in the Statute 26 Hen. VIII. c. 3, have been repealed by the Statute Law Revision Act, 1863 (26 and 27 Victoria, cap. 125).

S. Dunstan in the West, London, merchant tailor, and Thomas Sewster of Whaddon in the county of Cambridge, gentleman. Patron, Henry Pigott, Esq.

1606, August 5. John Harrison, B.D., was instituted to the Rectory of Abington, void by the death of William Cragge, and compounded for first fruits on the 4th of October following. His sureties were Thomas Awdeley of Saint Ives in the county of Huntingdon, Esq., and Whittell Awdeley of Wigan [sic] in the same county, gentleman.

1633, Sept. 17. Edward Lynne, B.D.,[1] third son of John Lynne of Bassingbourn, Esq., by Mary (Sewster) his wife. Born about Christmas 1570; educated at Eton, whence he was elected to King's College, Cambridge, a Scholar 6 Sept. 1589, and Fellow 6 Sept. 1592. B.A. 1593, M.A. 1597, B.D. 1605. He was instituted to the Rectory of Abington 17 Sept. 1633, at the presentation of Mistress Anne Pigott,[2] widow, and compounded for first fruits on the 18th[3] of October

[1] His eldest brother, William Lynne, was admitted to Gray's Inn 9 Feb. 1580-1. He married at Holy Trinity, Ely, Elizabeth Steward (daughter of Wm. Steward of Ely, Esq.) 10 Feb. 1588-9, but died 22 July 1589, aged 27, and was buried in Ely Cathedral (M. I.) His widow was re-married about 1591 to Robert Cromwell, M.P. for Huntingdon, by whom she was mother of OLIVER CROMWELL. See Genealogist, N.S. (ed. Selby), i. 155.

[2] Another brother, Francis, 6th son of the beforenamed John and Mary Lynne, married Abigail, daughter to John Pigott of Abington, and was administrator to his brother-in-law, John Pigott.

[3] On the same day Daniel Pigott, M.A., (instituted 15 Sept. 1633) compounded for the first fruits of Steeple Gidding rectory (co. Huntingdon), which benefice had been held since the year 1616 by Edward Lynne (he compounded 24 Dec. 1616) who had previously (instituted 17 April 1606) been Rector of Molesworth, co. He must have resigned the benefice some ten years before, as may be seen by the date of his successor's institution.

1645, July 23. Isaac King was instituted.[2] He compounded for first fruits on the same day, his sureties being—Henry Pigott of Abington in the county of Cambridge, Esq., and Henry Lynne of Higham Gobion in the county of Bedford, clerk. He was instituted at the presentation of John Pigott, Esq., and compounded for first fruits 26 August 1672, his sureties being Roger Jackson of the Parish of S. Giles in the Fields, Middlesex, gentleman, and John Jackson[3] of the parish of S. Dunstan in the West, London, hosier. He was rector also Instituted to Abington at the presentation of Granado Pigott, Esq., he compounded for first fruits of the Rectory 16 May 1704, being bound himself with Richard Davies of Bridewell Precinct, London, hatmaker. His first wife, Ann, died (p. 38) at Westminster, 18 Dec. 1710, and was buried 21 Dec. in the vault of the Savoy Chancel, where he was chaplain. On 12 Dec. 1714 he married secondly, in Lincoln Minster, Letice Thompson, who survived him and died at Lincoln. He died 26 March, and was buried 30 March 1718, in the middle alley of this church (Abington) near the chancel.

[2] Cole writes "Gralham," but no such place is found in the county.

[3] Instituted 29 May 1700. Patrons—the Dean and Chapter of Westm^{r}.

1723, Nov. 6. Thomas Hewerdine of Sidney Sussex College, B.A. 1680, M.A. 1684. Presented by Granado Pigott[1] of Bassingbourn in the county of Cambridge, Esq. He compounded for first fruits 6 Nov. 1723, being bound himself with George Torrent of the parish of S. Botolph, Aldgate, London, upholder. He was some time Vicar of Bassingbourn,[2] and preached in the church on the anniversary of its dedication 14 July 1717, a sermon which was afterwards printed, entitled "The Common Prayer-Book no English Mass-Book," and dedicated to "Granado Pigott, Edward Nightingale, Esquires, and the rest of the gentlemen and parishioners of Bassingbourn and Kneesworth." In the course of the dedication he mentions the fact (found in an old book of Church Wardens' Accounts), that on S. Margaret's Day, 3 Hen. VIII. (20 July 1511), there was acted at Bassingbourn "the Play of the Holy Martyr St. George." At the same time was made a plentiful and free entertainment, towards the charge of which no fewer than twenty-seven of the neighbouring towns contributed. Among these "Abington" is the ninth in the order named,

1710. This fact is not mentioned by the writer of Ecton's life in the Dictionary of National Biography. He was the author of that valuable work, Liber Valorum et Decimarum, of which there were three editions (London, 1711, 1723, 1728, 8vo.) It was then re-published (in 4to.) as Thesaurus Rerum Ecclesiasticarum. The 2nd edition, by Browne Willis, LL.D. (London, 1754, 4to.), calls Ecton "late Receiver-General of the Tenths of the Clergy."

[1] Cole was at Abington Pigotts 18 Aug. 1748, and then made some extracts from the Register, including the entry of the burial (p. 31) of Granado Pigott, 26 Feb. 1723 [4]. He adds this comment—"Mr. Pigot says this is wrong dated, and that his father died 14 and was buried 18 of February."

[2] Instituted 8 June 1704. On 22 July 1711 he preached in the church of Bassingbourn, a sermon on the death of Mistress Mildred, daughter of Edward Nightingale, Esq. (London, 1711, 8vo.) He also preached a sermon (afterwards printed) in 1714 at Bassingbourn on the death of Alice Pigott (p. 29).

which was that of paying the respective sums out of their public stocks. Mr. Hewerdine was the author of other tracts, chiefly in defence of infant-baptism.[1] He died in the 82nd year of his age at Bassingbourn, and was buried there 7 Nov. 1740, as appears by the Parish Register.

1740-1, Jan. 3 and 1742-3, Mar. 8 — Andrew Pern, B.D., Fellow of Peterhouse, B.A. 1728, M.A. 1732, B.D. 1739. "Instituted the third, and inducted the 15th of January 1740-1, he kept his fellowship; but, when the Rectory of Norton fell, by Condition of the Donation of that Living to the College, the Person presented was to have none other at that time. So he resigned this, and Mr. Pigott presented him again, and he was instituted[2] the second time, 8 March, and inducted the 24th [of that month], 1742." He compounded for first fruits 12 Jan. 1740-1, his sureties being—Christopher Myngs of the parish of S. Sepulchre, London, druggist, and Charles Bathurst of the parish of S. Dunstan in the West, London, bookseller; and again, for the same, 9 March 1742-3, being bound himself with Cutts

[2] The two institutions are thus returned by the bishop:—"January 3, 1740. He died at Hawnes, and was buried there 24 Oct. 1780; as appears by the Parish Register, wherein he is described as Rector (instead of Vicar), of that parish.
